SUBMITTING DEPARTMENT: Finance

CITY MANAGER APPROVAL:

BACKGROUND INFORMATION: Oakland County as part of their OakGreen Initiative, has issued a request for proposal to award $50,000 in contracted professional planning services and $20,000 in County staff resources to geographically contiguous communities that have demonstrated a commitment to environmental sustainability and want to collaborate to create and adopt an inter-jurisdictional sustainability plan through the formation of a Local Model Showcase Sustainability Partnership. Both the City of Novi and Farmington Hills are committed to the development of such a partnership which would advance our existing efforts and identify opportunities for further community development, transportation enhancements, local energy and environmental sustainability as well as the redevelopment of existing corridors.

Both communities have already begun addressing sustainability related issues and have a proven track record of successfully implementing the requirements of the Energy Efficiency Conservation Block Grant Program as well as an established partnership to provide shared services for the 2010 Pathway Gap project. Novi and Farmington Hills were recently awarded the Oakland County Green Community Excellence Awards. Both Novi and Farmington Hills' Master Plan for Land Use have long held goals and recommendations for environmental sustainability within the community.

If awarded, Oakland County anticipates the planning process to begin October 1, 2010, and conclude June 30, 2012. The contractor that will provide planning services would be selected with input from the selected communities. A commitment of 150 staff-hours per community is required, however any additional financial resources are optional. Attached are letters from OLHA as well as AKT Peerless offering their cooperation and support to our efforts.

As part of the County's OakGreen Initiative (www.oakgov.com/oakgreen), Oakland County Planning & Economic Development Services seeks to work with two or three geographically contiguous communities that have demonstrated a commitment to sustainability and want to take the next step by collaborating to create and adopt an inter-jurisdictional sustainability plan through the formation of a Local Model Showcase Sustainability Partnership. Such a partnership will integrate economic, community and environmental goals and identify and prioritize existing and needed efforts and needed efforts for advancing local sustainability through the development of an action plan. Dear Mr. Hunter,

On behalf of AKT Peerless Environmental and Energy Services (AKT Peerless), I want to express our support for the joint application by the Cities of Farmington Hills and Novi to the Oakland County Local Model Showcase Sustainability Partnership Program. As a Principal and Co-founder of AKT Peerless and a 14 year resident of Novi, I have a vested interest in success of the region. The issue of sustainability is not unique to any one community and it is absolutely critical that partnerships span jurisdictional boundaries and work together to enhance communities.

AKT Peerless has been working with municipalities throughout Michigan for over 20 years. This work has included environmental, economic development and energy consulting. It has become very clear that local units of government must work together to integrate economic, community and environmental goals to enhance the vitality of their region. In order for Michigan to move forward, sustainability planning must be addressed.

Both Farmington Hills and Novi have made significant sustainability strides already. In particular, the Energy Efficiency and Conservation Block Grant (EECBG) program goals for each community will reduce energy costs, energy use and greenhouse gas emissions. AKT Peerless has been working with the City of Novi from the development of the Energy Efficiency and Conservation Strategy (EECS) to implementation. Each community is uniquely positioned to develop a sustainability action plan, which will expand current efforts and find commonalities across municipal borders.

AKT Peerless commends Oakland County for their efforts to foster partnerships amongst communities; especially when these efforts address such issues as community sustainability planning. Many of the challenges that Michigan faces can be addressed within the context of sustainability.

The results of the Farmington Hills and Novi partnership could provide a valuable case study in suburban sustainability. How do today's suburbs stay viable and sustainable? How do we continue to attract new investment in existing suburbs rather than in undeveloped areas of the region and State, thus saving valuable natural and agricultural resources? How do we work together to foster energy independence and environmental consciousness? Farmington Hills and Novi, with resources and support from Oakland County, can help address these questions.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Hunter,

On behalf of the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency Energy Services Division, I want to express our support for the joint application by the Cities of Farmington Hills and Novi to the Oakland County Local Model Showcase Sustainability Partnership Program. The issue of sustainability is not unique to any one community. The Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency is supportive of efforts that span jurisdictional boundaries and where commonalities can be recognized and harnessed.

We recognize that these two communities have already begun addressing sustainability related issues in their respective communities. However, working in partnership, it is clear that these two communities can have a larger, regional impact. The Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency is always supportive of partnerships such as this that strive to integrate economic, community and environmental goals.

We commend Oakland County for their efforts to foster partnerships amongst communities; especially when these efforts address such issues as community sustainability planning. Many of the challenges that Michigan faces can be addressed within the context of sustainability.

With Michigan's history of automobiles and suburban development, it is the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agencies opinion that fostering this collaborative relationship between Farmington Hills and Novi could provide a valuable case study in suburban sustainability. How do today's suburbs stay viable and sustainable? How do we continue to attract new investment in existing suburbs rather than in undeveloped areas of the region and State, thus saving valuable natural and agricultural resources? How do we work together to foster energy independence and environmental consciousness? We feel this partnership between Farmington Hills and Novi, with resources and support from Oakland County, can help address these questions.

Sincerely,
